MESSAGE

FROM

One of the best parts of my job is getting out on the road. Over the past several months, we've spent time traveling, meeting with retail customers and RV manufacturers, and getting a firsthand pulse on the state of the industry. While there are certainly challenges, there are also plenty of reasons to be optimistic. It's encouraging to see excitement at retail events, new coach sales, and manufacturers continuing to invest in new products.

At Freightliner Custom Chassis, we're doing the same. We continue to move forward on projects that demonstrate the strength of our Daimler heritage and our long-term commitment to the RV industry. One recent example is our partnership with Roush and General Motors to bring a gasoline powertrain option to select FCCC platforms, expanding opportunities for manufacturers while continuing our focus on innovation.

We're also excited to welcome Foretravel to the Freightliner Custom Chassis family. Their new Limited Series Realm FL605 built on an FCCC chassis is a luxurious addition to the FCCC lineup, and we look forward to supporting both Foretravel and its owners for years to come.

We've also expanded our Road Ready maintenance video library in the My 24/7 Direct owners app. In addition to useful Class A content, S2RV owners now have access to videos designed specifically for understanding their chassis. These easy-to-follow resources make it simpler to stay on top of routine maintenance and keep your coach road ready for every adventure.

Thank you for your continued trust in Freightliner Custom Chassis. We appreciate the opportunity to connect with so many of you throughout the year, and your feedback continues to help shape the products and support we provide.

Wherever the road takes you next, we wish you safe travels and many memorable miles ahead.

EPA CHANGES, DEF SYSTEMS AND WHAT IT MAY MEAN FOR OUR MEMBERS

There have been a number of changes at the EPA over the past year, and several of them may eventually affect owners of diesel-powered motorhomes. Some changes have been delayed by court challenges, while others have already been finalized or are beginning to move toward implementation. We should start seeing the effects of some of these regulatory changes over the next several months to a year.

One of the largest changes is the EPA's rescission of the 2009 Greenhouse Gas Endangerment Finding. That finding served as the legal foundation for many greenhouse gas regulations affecting new motor vehicles and engines. EPA has stated that rescinding the finding removes the agency's authority to regulate greenhouse gas emissions from light-, medium-, and heavy-duty highway vehicles and engines under that portion of the Clean Air Act. This change does not eliminate all emissions requirements, nor does it directly remove regulations related to traditional pollutants such as NOx or particulate matter, but it is still a major shift in the regulatory landscape.

EPA has stated that rescinding the finding removes the agency's authority to regulate greenhouse gas emissions from light-, medium-, and heavy-duty highway vehicles and engines under that portion of the Clean Air Act.

For owners of later-model diesel coaches, especially post-2008 coaches equipped with diesel exhaust fluid (DEF) systems, DEF has been a major topic of concern. Early DEF systems primarily monitored fluid level and temperature, and those systems were generally reliable. Later requirements added DEF quality monitoring, introducing another potential point of failure. Across many industries, including the RV industry, DEF header and sensor failures have caused serious problems for owners.

The greatest concern has been the possibility of an engine derate. In some cases, a DEF system fault could eventually limit the engine to very low speeds, leaving a vehicle stranded or nearly unusable until repairs could be made. That has been a significant issue for RV owners, truckers, farmers, emergency services, and other operators who rely on diesel-powered equipment.

EPA has proposed and finalized changes intended to reduce the impact of DEF-related failures. Beginning with model year 2027 heavy-duty on-highway vehicles and engines, the new requirements are intended to help prevent sudden and severe power loss following certain DEF-related problems. EPA has also encouraged engine and equipment manufacturers to revise software for vehicles already in service so owners have more time to address a problem before facing a severe derate.

Another important change is the move away from requiring a separate DEF quality sensor. Instead, manufacturers may be able to rely on existing emissions system data, such as NOx sensor feedback, to determine whether the system is operating properly. In practical terms, this could eliminate one troublesome failure point within the DEF system. It does not eliminate DEF, SCR systems, or emissions controls, but it may help reduce unnecessary derates caused by a failed quality sensor.

For FCOC members, this primarily means watching what Cummins does next. Cummins engines power many of the Freightliner-based coaches in our club that require DEF, so any practical changes for most of our members will likely come through Cummins software updates and service procedures.

Members should not expect an immediate fix. This is not a recall, and it may never become one. If updates are made available for prior model years, they will likely be handled through normal service channels and could be offered as a paid software update. At this point, I would not expect broad availability until late this year or possibly into 2027.

The good news is that the issue is being recognized at the regulatory level, and manufacturers are being encouraged to address existing vehicles as well as future production. That does not help someone who has already been stranded by a DEF failure, but it may lead to more reasonable derate schedules and fewer unnecessary roadside breakdowns in the future.

As always, the best advice is to maintain your chassis according to the manufacturer's recommendations, pay attention to warning messages, avoid ignoring DEF-related alerts, and work with qualified service providers when faults occur. We will continue to monitor this issue and share updates with members as more specific information becomes available from EPA, Cummins, and Freightliner Custom Chassis.

In some cases, a DEF system fault could eventually limit the engine to very low speeds, leaving a vehicle stranded or nearly unusable until repairs could be made.

Last month, two MASA members were traveling in their RV when suddenly one of them needed medical attention. 911 was called, & they were taken by ground ambulance to a local hospital. Soon, it was known he needed airlift to Big Town General for emergency surgery. After a 3 week stay they were transported back home to recuperate at their local hospital. Since that time, their RV was shipped back to their driveway.

FCOC PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Summer is here, and if you are not on the road, you are missing out. There is so much to do and so little time, so do not waste a moment.

Let me start with some club news. Our group is healthy and growing, and there is a lot of buzz in the RV world about Super C motorhomes. Manufacturers are responding with more options, and many new coaches are being built on Freightliner chassis. Right now, only the S2RV chassis qualifies for club membership, but we are proposing a change at our Annual Business Meeting that could open membership to owners of all Freightliner chassis. I'll send an e-blast after the meeting to let everyone know how it turns out, so keep an eye on your inbox in late July.

If you have not been to Amana, Iowa, you should add it to your list. That is where we held our Annual Business Meeting this summer. The Amana Meat Shop & Smokehouse is a must-stop for fresh, frozen, and smoked meats, and the Ox Yoke Inn's family-style meals are always a treat.

Looking ahead, we will be in Saint George, Utah, this September at McArthur's Temple View RV Resort. We are hosting a Camp Freightliner class for diesel pushers, led by the Freightliner factory training staff. If you have not attended Camp Freightliner for your coach, you are missing a terrific opportunity to learn the best practices for maintaining your chassis. The class is focused on your specific chassis, covering what maintenance is required, when it should be done, and why it matters. When you register for the event, the host will email you the code you need to sign up for Camp Freightliner.

In November, we are heading to Branson, Missouri, for an entertainment-focused event. This one is all about great shows, Silver Dollar City, delicious food, and fun times—no training classes or seminars, just relaxation and entertainment. Details will be available on the website.

We've also mapped out most of next year's schedule: Gulf Shores, Alabama, in April; Garden of the Gods, Colorado, in September; The Ridge in Sevierville, Tennessee, in November; and, tentatively, Cam-Plex in Gillette, Wyoming, in June, which would also be the site of our Annual Business Meeting.

I know fuel costs have made travel tough for some, but hopefully that will not last. In the meantime, I hope you find a way to get out, enjoy the road, reconnect with old friends, make some new ones, and take full advantage of the RV lifestyle we all love.

We are always looking for motivated members to help, whether it is hosting events, serving on the board, or simply spreading the word about FCOC. Even if someone is not driving a Freightliner chassis today, they might be in their next coach. Everyone is welcome at our events, but only those with eligible Freightliner chassis can become members and enjoy all the benefits.

Safe travels.

FEATURED MEMBERS

READY FOR THE ROAD:

EARL BENZENHAFFER AND ANNA KIGER SPENT YEARS PREPARING FOR RETIREMENT. NOW THEY'RE MAKING EVERY MILE COUNT.

When Earl Benzenhafer and Anna Kiger bought their 2022 Thor Venetian, retirement was still a few years away. Most people might have waited. They didn't.

Instead, they saw an opportunity. They knew prices were climbing, so rather than waiting until retirement, they bought the coach early and spent the next few years learning everything they could. Weekend trips became practice runs. They learned how to drive it, back it into campsites, maintain it and budget for the lifestyle they had always imagined.

Then, in August 2024, Anna retired. "2025 is really our breakout year for RV life," she says. "Now we want to spend many more days and weeks on the road."

LEARNING BEFORE LEAVING

Their approach has always been intentional. When their Freightliner chassis came with a complimentary year of FCOC membership, joining was an easy decision. What they didn't expect was how valuable the club would become.

Earl had spent a lifetime working on cars and tackling projects around the house, but a diesel chassis was a different world. Camp Freightliner changed that.

"My head was exploding with knowledge," he laughs after attending his first class.

One simple maintenance tip from instructor Bobby Wayne Scruggs dramatically improved the performance of their dash air conditioning, and the experience reinforced something both Earl and Anna now believe: owning a motorhome means understanding what keeps it moving.

"THESE COACHES ARE A SIGNIFICANT INVESTMENT.
YOU NEED TO UNDERSTAND
WHAT'S UNDERNEATH THE
LIVING ACCOMMODATIONS
JUST AS MUCH AS YOU
ENJOY WHAT'S ABOVE THEM."

— Anna Kiger

PLANNING THE ADVENTURE

While Earl enjoys the mechanical side of RV ownership, Anna is the planner. Every trip begins with maps, campground research and a well-organized travel binder filled with reservations, notes and memories waiting to be made.

"It can be as enjoyable as you want it to be," she says. "It starts with deciding where you want to go, planning the experience and making the journey just as memorable as the destination."

Those plans still leave plenty of room for spontaneity. The couple enjoys discovering small campgrounds, exploring local communities and striking up conversations with fellow RVers wherever they stop.

THE PERFECT TEAM

Like many RV couples, they've naturally settled into their roles. Earl drives while Anna serves as co-pilot, keeping an eye on traffic and helping navigate the unexpected.

"It's not how fast I can go," Earl says. "It's how fast I can stop."

After countless miles together, they've learned that driving a 50,000-pound coach isn't just about confidence behind the wheel. It's about teamwork.

While Earl appreciates how comfortably the Freightliner chassis handles long travel days, Anna pays close attention to the traffic around them, watching for drivers who don't always understand the space a motorhome needs. Together, they've become a well-practiced team.

JUST GETTING STARTED

Today, Earl serves as FCOC's Vice President of Membership, helping welcome new members and encouraging them to take advantage of everything the club has to offer. Whether he's sharing maintenance tips, recommending Camp Freightliner or simply introducing himself at a rally, he enjoys helping others build confidence in their coaches.

His advice for anyone considering RV life is simple: do your research, understand the commitment and take the time to learn before you head out.

For Earl and Anna, those years of preparation have made retirement even sweeter. Now that the planning is behind them, they're finally living the adventure they imagined years ago, one thoughtfully planned trip at a time.

SEASONAL ARTICLE

WORTH THE DETOUR FIVE SUMMER STOPS THAT DESERVE A PLACE ON YOUR ITINERARY

One of the biggest advantages of RV travel is that you don't have to drive straight from one campground to the next. Summer is full of experiences that are easy to miss if you're focused only on the destination. From county fairs to scenic byways, a few extra miles can turn an ordinary travel day into one you'll remember long after the trip is over.

Here are five detours worth building into your route.

1. A CLASSIC COUNTY FAIR

Nothing says late summer quite like a county fair.

Whether it's the Iowa State Fair, the Minnesota State Fair, or a local county fair you happen to pass along the way, these events offer a slice of Americana that's hard to find anywhere else. Livestock barns, antique tractors, live music, local food vendors, demolition derbies, pie contests, and Ferris wheels create an experience that's as entertaining as it is nostalgic.

Worth looking for: August and early September county fairs along your route.

2. SCENIC BYWAYS THAT SLOW YOU DOWN

Sometimes the best part of the trip is the drive itself.

Instead of taking the fastest route, consider adding a designated scenic byway to your journey. Roads like Michigan's M-22, Colorado's Trail Ridge Road, or the Blue Ridge Parkway offer overlooks, hiking opportunities, picnic areas, and small towns you would otherwise miss.

You'll spend a little more time getting there, but you'll likely stop a lot more often.

3. SEASONAL ROADSIDE STANDS

Summer is harvest season, and many farming communities celebrate it.

Roadside fruit stands, U-pick orchards, sweet corn wagons, and farmers markets are easy places to stretch your legs while supporting local growers. Depending on where you're traveling, you might find Michigan cherries, Georgia peaches, Colorado Palisade peaches, Washington apples, or fresh sweet corn picked that morning.

It's a simple stop that often becomes one of the tastiest memories of the trip.

4. HISTORIC MAIN STREETS

Some of the country's best small towns aren't destinations because of one famous attraction. They're destinations because they're enjoyable to explore.

Park the RV and spend a few hours browsing locally owned bookstores, antique shops, bakeries, coffee shops, and museums. Many towns also host free summer concerts, classic car nights, or art walks throughout August.

Sometimes slowing down is the attraction.

5. THE BROWN SIGNS

If you've driven very far, you've seen them.

Brown highway signs point travelers toward scenic overlooks, covered bridges, waterfalls, historic sites, caves, and monuments that many people drive right past.

Not every stop will be spectacular, but every once in a while you'll discover the place everyone else overlooked.

Those are often the stories you'll tell the longest.

LEAVE A LITTLE ROOM ON THE ITINERARY

It's easy to fill every day with reservations and destinations, but one of the greatest benefits of RV travel is flexibility. This summer, leave a little room for the unexpected. Take the scenic road. Stop at the county fair. Follow the sign to the overlook.

The next great memory might be just a few miles off your planned route.

ROADSIDE RECIPES

CAMPFIRE SAUSAGE & POTATO FOIL DINNERS

Servings: 4

INGREDIENTS:

- 1½ lbs baby potatoes, halved
- 14 oz. smoked sausage, sliced into ½-inch rounds
- 1 medium red bell pepper, chopped
- 1 small yellow onion, sliced
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- 1 tsp garlic powder
- 1 tsp smoked paprika
- 1 tsp Italian seasoning
- Salt and black pepper, to taste
- 2 tbsp chopped fresh parsley (optional)
- Aluminum foil

Inspired by "Potato-Sausage Foil Packs" by Alissa Keith, Taste of Home.

DIRECTIONS:

1. Preheat Your Grill or Campfire:

Prepare a medium-hot grill or campfire with steady coals.

2. Season the Ingredients:

In a large bowl, combine potatoes, sausage, bell pepper, and onion. Drizzle with olive oil and sprinkle with garlic powder, smoked paprika, Italian seasoning, salt, and pepper. Toss until evenly coated.

3. Build the Foil Packets:

Divide the mixture evenly among four large sheets of heavy-duty foil. Fold and seal each packet tightly.

4. Cook:

Place packets over medium heat on the grill or campfire grate. Cook for 25–35 minutes, turning once halfway through, until the potatoes are tender.

5. Serve:

Carefully open each packet, garnish with fresh parsley if desired, and enjoy right from the foil for easy cleanup.

TIP: Add zucchini, mushrooms, or corn during the summer for even more fresh flavor.

BACON, CHEDDAR & CHIVE CAMP BREAD

Servings: 1 Loaf

INGREDIENTS:

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tbsp baking powder
- ½ tsp salt
- ½ tsp garlic powder
- 1½ cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese
- 6 slices bacon, cooked crisp and crumbled
- ¼ cup chopped fresh chives
- 1 cup milk
- 1 large egg
- ¼ cup melted butter
- 1 tbsp honey (optional)

Inspired by "Cheddar, Bacon, and Chive Quick Bread" by Charlyne Mattox, Country Living.

DIRECTIONS:

1. Prepare the Oven:

Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease a standard loaf pan.

2. Mix the Dry Ingredients:

In a large bowl, whisk together flour, baking powder, salt, and garlic powder. Stir in cheddar cheese, bacon, and chives.

3. Combine the Wet Ingredients:

In a separate bowl, whisk together milk, egg, melted butter, and honey, if using.

4. Make the Batter:

Pour the wet ingredients into the dry ingredients and stir just until combined. Do not overmix.

5. Bake:

Spread the batter evenly into the prepared loaf pan. Bake for 45–55 minutes, or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean.

5. Cool & Enjoy:

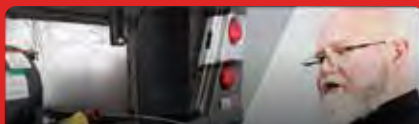

Allow the bread to cool for about 10 minutes before slicing. Serve warm with butter or alongside your favorite campfire meal.

TIP: Bake the loaf before your trip and enjoy slices throughout the weekend—they're excellent toasted on a skillet the next morning.

OFFERS FROM OASIS AND PARTICIPATING DEALERS

OASIS NETWORK PROGRAM CENTERS

Freightliner Custom Chassis Corporation (FCCC) and select Freightliner Oasis dealerships across the country have established a program offering members of the Freightliner Chassis Owners Club (FCOC) special pricing on service labor and parts.

All listed dealers are official Freightliner Oasis locations and, at a minimum, have technicians trained to service and repair your motorhome chassis. Many may also offer RV parking, customer lounges, pet accommodations, and other amenities.

Some participating dealers may offer:

10% OFF POSTED LABOR RATES AND 10% OFF PARTS.

It is important that you do the following. If you don't, you may not receive the discount:

You MUST inform the dealer that you are an FCOC member up front, request the discount, and identify yourself by presenting your current membership card. Ask for a copy of your invoice showing the discount once your work is completed.

In developing the Oasis Dealer Discount Program, all Oasis dealers were contacted and invited to participate. However, participation is a business decision made independently by each dealer. Due to mergers, acquisitions, and dealer consolidation, participation and discount policies may vary by location.

Members are strongly encouraged to contact the dealer in advance to confirm participation and discount details before traveling.

If the Freightliner dealer you wish to use is not on the list, we encourage you to let them know of your interest in having them participate. Dealers seeking more information about the program may contact VP.BUSDEV@FCOCRV.ORG.

If you experience any issues with a participating Oasis dealer, please contact Steven Bertling for assistance.

As a reminder, it is your responsibility to request the discount at the time the service order is opened – not after the work is completed.

PLEASE REMEMBER: THESE OASIS DEALERS SUPPORT FCOC, SO PLEASE SUPPORT THEM.
